Saw Palmetto (Serenoa repens) grows in dense clumps, providing cover for a variety of animals, including the Six-lined Racerunner (Cnemidophorus sexlineatus). This attractive reptile is very active during the day and is often heard rustling around in the dry leaves.